

FIGURE 13.29. Rates of synonymous nucleotide substitution are similar across genes, whereas rates of nonsynonymous change, which alter amino acid sequence, are generally lower and more variable.

13.29, redrawn from Kimura M., Philos. Trans. R. Soc. Lond. B 312: 343–354, © 1986 The Royal Society

Evolution © 2007 Cold Spring Harbor Laboratory Press